The information collected and the reason we do so is defined below:

As part of the application process you provide PRN with certain personal information and in doing so you also authorize PRN to contact past employers and references which may lead to the acquisition of additional personal data.

The information that is gathered may be provided to current or potential clients as a means of seeking contracts or per diem assignments for you. PRN will make efforts to keep your personal information confidential by limiting access to our employee and client database(s) and by communicating the need to maintain confidentiality to our office staff.

PRN will not and does not disclose your personal information to any third party organization for the purpose of commercial gain. In the event that PRN utilizes the services of outside companies for PRN business we will insist that they in turn protect and guard all data supplied to them, this will be done in writing and the policy will be made available to you upon request.

PRN may occasionally contact you with general company information; this may be done via personal phone call, automated phone call, mailings or e-mail. If at any time you desire to no longer be contacted by PRN you may contact us and your information will be removed from those databases. This request will not prevent us from actively pursuing per diem and contract opportunities for you unless requested.

PRN via its website offers links to third party websites that offer services outside the control of PRN such as continuing education or other healthcare related topics. The visiting of these sites is optional and your discretion should be used when visiting these sites. PRN cannot guarantee your privacy as we do not have control over their policies and/or content. We strongly urge you to read and understand their security policy before registering or supplying any personal data.

PRN also maintains internal security policies that prevent unauthorized personnel from handling or accessing your information. We also include relevant databases in our backup routine to prevent loss of data. When data is transmitted via the internet it cannot be guaranteed to be 100% secure and we will not be held liable should a third party illegally obtain your personal data. Our policy will not extend to data that is transmitted via the internet and thereby beyond our control.

By visiting the PRN website you consent to this security policy. If you do not agree with the contents of this policy, refrain from further use. Changes to this policy may be made periodically and those changes will be posted on this site. If you continue to use this site you thereby agree to this policy.
